Market Commentary

Despite a good start of the month with ten positive sessions in a row, the Euro yield matrix shifted abruptly higher with a flattening movement following the highest ever inflation print. The ECB's hawkish tone and the change in expectations about its future actions (from 25 to 75 bps hike in September meeting) pushed the market yields close to the highest levels of the year across Euro countries (+70 bps on average). On the Corporate side, spreads were mixed in August. On one hand, IG sector followed the rates movement, closing the month flat spread-wise. On the other hand, HY registered a strong negative performance over the month, with their spreads widening more than 60 bps. Summarizing, inflation and recession warnings pulled up and hit us considerably.

Performance Commentary

In August, Global Enhanced Cash delivered a net performance of -0.35%.

At portfolio level, we reduced the modified duration to 0.52 years. This allowed us to limit losses, given the adverse yield movement.

For September, we will leave our strategic positioning unchanged in the first part of the month, as we wait for the ECB's statements. Should we witness a rebound on the short-term part of the curve we will cut our short leg, increasing the overall duration exposure and taking advantage of our credit spread strategy.
